Follows New York Central.

New York, Dec. II.—An elastic general and refunding mortgage with no limit as to the amount of bonds to be issued was executed today by officers of the Chi-cago, Milwankee and St. Paul Ballway. This mortgage is similar to that author-ized some months ago by the New York Central.

Central.

The new mortgage is an open one and bonds may be issued thereunder to three times the outstanding capital stock. Proceeds will be utilized for taking care of maturing obligations and paying for newly acquired or constructed lines, extensions, additional terminals, rolling stock and other improvements.

FOR POSTOFFICE WORK

Post Mail and Work of Fourth-class Offices.

eing placed under civil service, the Post

Dring to the fourth class postmatters being placed under civil service, the Postfolice Department will sak Congress to increase the number of postofice inspectures from 26 to 62. The increased number will be asked for also partly on account of the increase in the volume of mail due to parcel post.

Under the new way of appointing postmasters of the lowest grade either by civil service examination or by the Postfolic Department, inspectors visiting fourth class offices where the salary is less than $190 a year, the work of the inspectors has been largely increased. It is admitted at the department that there has been no increase in depredations upon the mails, but officials contend that the increase in roblems of mail due to parcel post. The department officials admit also that insured parcel post matter is being carried at present in the same bags with uniquared post matter, but they say that all parcel post matter soon will be forwarded in looked bags, and when the most desirable has been selected it will be furnished to all postoffices.

Hepresentative Jermish Donovain of the Fourth Congressonal district, which mesds one county with its 12,22 inhabitants, doesn't hise to see things wrong in the newspapers—especially so because he has twenty words about himself printed in the Congressional Record. He wrote his biography all by himself and anothing but the truth.

Yes. The Herald printed an article in which Mr. Donovan was one of the wor principal figures, the other person concerned being Mr. Oscar Underwoods and of 11-2 per cent was declared, parallel space in the newspapers during the late unpleasantness with Spain.

The Herald enticles stated that Mr. Donovan was born in Ireland. His secretary restering informed us that this was incorrect for Mr. Donovan first saw the light of day in the grand old State of Cannecticut, which has been made famous by New Haven wrecks. Spivester Z. Full and nutmegs.

Since looking at Mr. Donovan's biograph of twenty words. The Herald printed as a fine migration bill, which was vetoed by graph of twenty words. The Herald printed as a fine migration bill, which was vetoed by President Taft.

NATHANIEL C. FOWLER. JR. About Marrying.

WHY not a talk on marriage?
Almost everybody worth while is married, is going to be, or is considering it. Marriage will either make or break a man.

The sentimentalist may differ from me, but he cannot controvert the recognized fact that the average man and woman give less attention to making the marriage contract than they would to purchasing an automobile, to building a home-house, or to leasing an apartment.

Accurate statistics are impossible, but those who have studied the question are of the opinion that not more than one out of a bundred marriages are entirely satisfactory to both parties, or to either of them, although it is likely that most husbands and wives live in reasonable harmony.

If what has been said is true.

husbands and wives live in reasonable harmony.

If what has been said is true, then he who marries has but one chance out of a hundred of contracting an alliance which he may not, consciously or unconsciously, regret.

To be married wrong is hell.

No one should select a partner for life without the most careful consideration, and without weighing the program of cons in the final mental scale.

Real love is safe; it does not play for chances. It is sensible, and the action of it is sure; but it is often difficult to differentiate between real love and the imitation of it, or what is commonly called sentiment, which may not be founded on love, and which may be based upon passion or infatuation.

Try as we will, we cannot diagnose with certainty, but there is a vast difference between carefulness in selection and reasonable grounds for the choice.

Proper marriages are not only love matches, but both parties enter this state with a full realization of the importance of material things, for love will not pay for food and lodging, or for clothing the body. So long as there is a physical sole to life, just so long the materialistic must play an equal part with the spiritual.

Consideration of the material does not interfere with the spiritual.

Most of the material does not interfere with the spiritual.

Most of the material does not interfere with the spiritual with the spiritual.

Most of the material does not hink much about it any way, and not by those who know know the the same they love.

The man who marries, when he cannot support a wife, and without prospect of giving her a comfortable home, is a scoundrel; and the woman who marries for a home only, or because she does not desire to continue in the state of "old maidenhood," is not fit to be any man's partner.

To enter matrimony without hought of material costs is as wicked and as dangerous as it would be to attempt to cross the ocean in a leaky boat, unseaworthy and unprovisioned.

Before proposing, strip yourself a leaky boat, unseaworthy and un-provisioned.

Before proposing, strip yourself of sentiment for the time being, and do not marry unless you can give several reasons why you would ask the selected woman to be your life's partner. If you cannot give them, something is the matter with you, with her, or with both of you. People fit to marry, and suited to each other, do not allow unsup-ported sentiment to guide them. Their love is both spiritual and ma-terial.

Their love is terial.

Unless you know why you want to marry a certain woman, don't to marry a certain w marry her. When in doubt, don't.
